2022 PRECEPTORSHIP

The FCACC-SEC Preceptorship is an international clinical experience that aims to have members who are currently in practice (private/academic/hospital-based) learn about the health system in Spain and get in-depth presentations and observe the latest technologies and therapies in the hospital setting.

The FCACC-SEC Preceptorship experiences in 2022 are built to offer two options to interested members. One is a shorter experience for those who have limited time but want to support the partnership and the other is a more in-depth trip designed to allow FCACC members time to interact with additional SEC members in different regions.

Details to know before committing to the program:

- You need not speak Spanish; all hospitals are expecting English speakers.
- You will receive one complimentary night at the hotel; other travel costs are not included. You pay for your own airfare, train, additional hotel nights, meals, and other travel.
- The chapter will host a reception in Madrid and tour of a local, walkable landmark at no cost to participants. Spouses and guests are welcome at the tour and reception at no charge.
- In each hospital a member of the SEC will act as your host, mentor and plan your experience. The hospitals are very enthusiastic about the program.
- There is also time to see Madrid during the first two days and if you are going on to another location there is time built in to explore also. If you want to see more of a given place it is suggested to build time into the front or back end of the schedule below.
- Once this form is complete and sent to the chapter office you are assigned a tentative slot in the program. On or before March 7, 2022 you must submit a copy of your travel itinerary to the chapter office. This will secure your seat and a mentor will then be assigned from the SEC.
